Networking Event

Equip yourself

With the number of different employment options available, many of us are no longer on a traditional 'career path'. Learning to identify the transferable skills and to equip yourself for new roles can help you to revitalise your career. WIMARQ invites you to hear from Marina Vit, CEO of Youngcare, speaking about the lessons she's learned throughout her working life, ideas on how to equip yourself for each role and how to influence in male-dominated environments.

Speaker information

Marina Vit is currently the Chief Executive Officer of Youngcare and previously held high profile and senior executive positions in government, corporations and the property industry. During her time as the Chief Executive Officer of Brisbane Marketing, Marina was instrumental in developing Brisbane's first brand campaign – positioning Brisbane in key southern markets. As the Chief of Staff to long-serving former Lord Mayor Jim Soorley, Marina was a key member of the team that developed 'Australia's most liveable city' through planning, policy and communication. Marina has also held positions with Communications and Development organisations.
